What is ROVR?

We understand that everyone wants to find like-minded people to connect with. We all desire different types of connections at different points in our lives. That's why we created ROVR, the only three-dimensional social connection network. Real life is more than just swiping left and right on a screen. It's about creating memorable experiences with people we enjoy being with. ROVR goes above and beyond anything previously available and creates the unique experience we call Connection Redefined. And that is just the beginning of what's in store!

Whether you are looking for casual dating, something more serious, or just some new friends to hit the town with; ROVR is designed to help you find whatever it is that you desire.

The app is broken up into three key sections: Casual, Serious, and Friends. You control which sections of the app your profiles appear in, so you immediately know the intentions of the people you meet on ROVR.

ROVR makes it easy to meet people who enjoy the same activities as you do. And don't worry about starting conversations. ROVR is here to help spark the conversation once you have matched with a potential date or connected with a new friend.
